Key Insights

Connecticut's African American-owned credit union sector includes 3 active institutions with a combined $4,197,796 in assets and 983 total members in 2025, with Science Park dominating the landscape at $3,689,101 in assets and 613 members. This suggests that while these institutions remain important community-based financial anchors, the sector is fragile and highly concentrated, and the declines among the smaller credit unions since 2016 may signal broader challenges for sustaining Black-owned financial infrastructure, community wealth-building, and equitable access to trusted local financial services.
